Independent Auditors' Report

Board of Directors Huntleigh Securities Corporation St. Louis, Missouri

We have audited the accompanying statement of financial condition of Huntleigh Securities Corporation (the "Company") as of December 31, 2006, and the related statement of operations, stockholders' equity, and cash flows for the year then ended that you are filing pursuant to rule 17a-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes consideration of internal control over financial reporting as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Huntleigh Securities Corporation as of December 31, 2006, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The supplemental information included in the accompanying schedules I through IV is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements, but is supplementary information required by Rule 17a-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Notes to Financial Statements

Note A - Summary of Significant Accounting and Reporting Policies

Nature of Operations

Huntleigh Securities Corporation (the "Company") was incorporated on May 12, 1977. The Company is a registered broker/dealer under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and a member of the National Association of Securities Dealers. In this capacity, the Company executes principal and agency securities transactions, provides investment banking services, and offers correspondent clearing and execution services for other firms.

The Company has agreements with certain clearing organizations to clear certain of its proprietary and customer transactions. These agreements require cash and/or security deposits to be maintained.

The Company has entered into an agreement to clear all of its customers' regulated commodity futures and commodity options accounts on a fully disclosed basis.

Use of Estimates in Financial Statement Preparation

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

For purposes of reporting cash flows, the Company considers all highly liquid debt instruments purchased with a maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents. The Company's cash and cash equivalents are on deposit in various financial institutions. At times, bank deposits may be in excess of federally insured limits.

Securities Owned and Securities Sold, Not Yet Purchased

Securities owned are valued at fair value as determined by management. The resulting differences between cost and estimated fair value are reflected in current period earnings. Fair values are generally based on prices from independent sources, such as listed market prices or broker or dealer price quotations. For investments illiquid and privately held securities that do not have readily determinable fair values through quoted market prices, the determination of fair value is based upon consideration of available information, including types of securities, current financial information, restrictions on dispositions, and market values of underlying securities and quotations for similar instruments.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are carried at cost less accumulated depreciation. Expenditures for maintenance, repairs and minor renewals are charged to operations as incurred; expenditures for betterments and major renewals are charged to the property and equipment accounts.

Depreciation of equipment is computed using accelerated methods over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Amortization of leasehold improvements is provided on a straight-line basis over the lesser of the terms of the related lease or the useful lives of the assets. Amortization of leasehold improvements and depreciation expense for the year ended December 31, 2006 was $16,200.

When assets are retired or otherwise disposed of, the costs and related accumulated depreciation are removed from the accounts; gains or losses resulting therefrom are included in the statement of operations.

Drafts Payable

Drafts payable represent amounts drawn by the Company against bank sweep agreements.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

Management estimates that the aggregate net fair market value of financial instruments recognized on the statement of financial condition approximates their carrying value.

Securities Borrowed and Securities Loaned

Securities borrowed and securities loaned transactions are generally reported as collateralized financings except where letters of credit or other securities are used as collateral. Securities borrowed transactions require the Company to deposit cash, letters of credit, or other collateral with the lender. With respect to securities loaned, the Company generally receives collateral in the form of cash or other collateral in an amount in excess of the market value of the securities loaned. The Company monitors the market value of securities borrowed and loaned on a daily basis, with additional collateral obtained or refunded as necessary.

Collateral

The Company continues to report assets it has pledged as collateral in secured borrowing and other arrangements when the secured party cannot sell or repledge the assets.

December 31, 2006

Note A - Summary of Significant Accounting and Reporting Policies (Continued)

Recognition of Revenues

Commissions, principal transactions, and related clearing expenses are recorded on a settlement date basis.

Investment banking revenue is recorded when a financing arrangement is completed and the related income is reasonably determinable. Investment banking revenues include management fees and underwriting fees, net of syndicate expenses, arising from securities offerings in which the Company acts as an underwriter agent. Investment banking revenues also include fees earned from providing merger-and-acquisition and financial restructuring advisory services.

Income Taxes

Current income taxes are based on the taxable income for the year, as measured by the current year's tax returns. Deferred income taxes arise primarily due to differences between the basis of property and equipment, net operating loss carryforwards, and recognition of losses on impairment of assets. The deferred tax asset represents the future tax benefits of those differences, which will be taxable when the assets are recovered. The deferred tax liability represents the future tax consequences of those differences, which will be payable when the assets are recovered.

Note G - Note Receivable

During 2005, the Company purchased intangible assets not directly related to the securities broker/dealer industry. The intangibles were acquired for $150,000 in relation to a customer debt. Upon purchase, the Company became an interested party as a secured holder in a judgment filed against previous owners of the intangible asset. During 2006, as a result of facts surrounding the litigation pertaining to the customer debt, Huntleigh deemed the receivable uncollectible and thus wrote off the intangible assets serving as collateral. The $150,000 was expensed and included in the accompanying statement of operations as loss on impairment.

Subsequent to writing off the collateral, the Court found in favor of the Company and awarded a judgment of approximately $465,000. Due to circumstances involving uncertainty of the future collectibility of this amount, and pursuant to SFAS 5, "Accounting for Contingencies", the Company has not recorded a gain in relation to the judgment in the accompanying financial statements.

The Company has elected to use the alternative method, permitted by the rule, which requires that the Company maintains minimum Net Capital, as defined, equal to the greater of $250,000 or 2 percent of aggregate debit balances arising from customer transactions, as defined. The Net Capital rule of the SEC also provides that equity capital may not be withdrawn or cash dividends paid if resulting Net Capital would be less than 5 percent of aggregate debits. At December 31, 2006, the Company had Net Capital of $1,349,369, which was $1,006,075 in excess of the required minimum and 8.0% of aggregate indebtedness.

Note L - Financial Instruments with Off-Balance Sheet Risk

In the normal course of business, the Company's customer activities involve the execution, settlement, and financing of various customer securities transactions. These activities may expose the Company to off-balance sheet risk in the event the customer or other broker is unable to fulfill its contractual obligations and the Company has to purchase or sell the financial instrument underlying the contract at a loss.

The Company has sold securities that it does not currently own, and will therefore, be obligated to purchase such securities at a future date. The Company has recorded these obligations in the financial statements at December 31, 2006, at market values of the related securities and will incur a loss if the market value of the securities increases subsequent to year end.

The Company's customer securities activities are transacted on either a cash or margin basis. In margin transactions, the Company extends credit to its customers, subject to various regulatory and internal margin requirements, collateralized by cash and securities in the customers' accounts. In connection with these activities, the Company executes and clears customer transactions involving the sale of securities not yet purchased, substantially all of which are transacted on a margin basis subject to individual exchange regulations. Such transactions may expose the Company to significant off-balance sheet risk in the event margin requirements are not sufficient to fully cover losses that customers may incur. In the event the customer fails to satisfy its obligations, the Company may be required to purchase or sell financial instruments at prevailing market prices to fulfill the customers' obligations.

The Company seeks to control the risks associated with its customer activities by requiring customers to maintain a margin collateral in compliance with various regulatory and internal guidelines. The Company monitors required margin levels daily and, pursuant to such guidelines, requires the customer to deposit additional collateral or to reduce positions when necessary.

Note M- Contingencies

Various legal claims arose during the normal course of business which, in management's opinion, will have no material effect on the Company's financial statements.

Supplemental Report On Internal Control Required By Securities And Exchange Commission Rule 17a-5

Board of Directors Huntleigh Securities Corporation St. Louis, Missouri

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements and supplemental schedules of Huntleigh Securities Corporation (the "Company") for the year ended December 31, 2006 (on which we issued our report dated February 26, 2007) we considered its internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the Company's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including tests of compliance with such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in the following:

- 1. Making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and capital under Rule 17a-3(a)(11) and the reserve required by Rule 15c3-3(e)
- 2. Making the quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons, and the recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13
- 3. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System
- 4. Obtaining and maintaining physical possessions or control of all fully paid and excess margin securities of customers as required by Rule 15c3-3

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph, and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in internal control or the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

A control deficiency exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent or detect misstatements on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a control deficiency, or a combination of control deficiencies, that adversely affects the entity's ability to initiate, authorize, record, process, or report financial data reliably in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, such that there is more than a remote likelihood that a misstatement of the entity's financial statements that is more than inconsequential will not be prevented or detected by the entity's internal control. A material weakness is a significant deficiency, or combination of significant deficiencies, that results in more than a remote likelihood that a material misstatement of the financial statements will not be prevented or detected by the entity's internal control.

Our consideration of the Company's internal control over financial reporting was for the limited purpose described in the first paragraph and would not necessarily disclose all deficiencies in internal control that might be significant deficiencies or material weaknesses under standards established by the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). However, we noted no deficiencies in the Company's internal control over financial reporting and its operation, including controls for safeguarding securities, that we consider to be a material weakness as defined above as of December 31, 2006.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2006, to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors, management, the SEC, the National Association of Securities Dealers, and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Reverse Act of 1934 In their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
